7.1. Alternative Pathways to Graduation Discussion

Assistant Superintendent Aaron Norris led a discussion around the possibility of an alternative school in the former Madison Elementary building. At this time, the building is home to several programs, including Shared Journeys, Community Transition Services (CTS), and Go2. This change would support a positive change in the state report cards, especially in the area of graduation rate.

There was also discussion of expanding the reduced credit graduation pathway to students at Central, Nathan Hale, and Dottke who are eligible for this pathway but want to attend school in person.
